

Social Affairs of Week Are Varied, Including Many of Musical Nature

A REUNION distinctly unique and interesting, which has occupied the greater part of the week was that of the descendants of Lewis and Elizabeth Rinehart, early Oregon pioneers, which took place at the T. A. Rinehart suburban residence just north of Salem. All who had any claim to kinship, came from far and near in accordance with an annual custom which originated thirteen years ago. The gathering of the clan began early in the week, each day's train bringing relatives from Washington, California, and various places in this state.

These gatherings resulted from the passing of Mrs. Elizabeth Rinehart, at Sommerville, Oregon, in 1908, mother of the oldest member of the Rinehart association. At that time relatives came from all parts of the West to attend the funeral and it was decided to make the reunion in honor of the original members an annual event. Since that time the relatives have met three times in Sommerville; once in Mayville; twice in Portland; twice in Springfield; once in Freeport; once in Dayton, Washington; and once in Vale, Oregon, this being the first time that the reunion has been held in Marion county.

They are well planned events and owing to their extent are of necessity under the direction of several officials who are chosen each year from the locality in which the next reunion is to take place. This year J. N. Rinehart is president, Mrs. C. E. Bishop, vice-president, and T. A. Rinehart, secretary, all of Salem. The association has its camp equipage and the gatherings are made essentially a time of pleasure, getting work being done entirely by outside professional caterers. A large improvised dining room is constructed on the grounds surrounding the residence and seats arranged beneath the trees for the impromptu programs, which are given each night by Rinehart talent exclusively.

Wednesday evening Professor John B. Horner, of the Oregon Agricultural College, an old time friend of the family was with them, showing stereopticon slides of interesting incidents in the history of the family and photographs of different members; T. A. Rinehart describing them as they were shown.

Thursday was visitors day and large numbers took advantage of the occasion to partake of the famous Rinehart hospitality. Judge Charles L. McNary made the address of the day.

The Rinehart family dates from 1770, when Lewis Rinehart came from Germany to the United States. Later his children moved west, and the original Rinehart of these remains was born in September, 1801. His eldest son left Iowa in 1852 and came to Oregon, the entire family following in two years. Lewis and Elizabeth Rinehart had thirteen children five of whom were girls, and all were married before either of the parents died.

A copy is kept of the original diary made while the family was crossing the plains, which makes interesting reading indeed, a medley of events, which form an unpolished romantic history of the primal west.

Three of the children of Lewis and Elizabeth Rinehart are living, Henry aged 73 who with his wife is here from Walla Walla; J. N. Rinehart of Salem, and Mrs. Sarah Crum of Oley, Oregon.

Others present at the reunion are: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. McPherson, Mr. and Mrs. Price Withers and their daughter Hazel, all of Eugene; Mrs. Lena Davis and two children Charles and Francis of Eugene; J. C. Rinehart of Modesto, California; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Moyer and two children Marion and Ruth, of LaMoore, California; Watson Rinehart and Ellis Rinehart of Corvallis; Mr. and Mrs. E. Rinehart, Guy Rinehart, Mrs. Anna Smith and daughter June, Bayes Rinehart, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rinehart and children, Will, Wilma and Vernon, all of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Rinehart and daughter Elma, of Nappel, Washington; Henry Wilkins and William Crum of Clem, Oregon; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rinehart and daughter Ruth, of Dayton, Washington; William Wilkins, and Miss Velma Wilkins, of Clem, Oregon; McKinley Camp of Oley, Oregon; Mr. and Mrs. Webley Edwards, of Mayville, Oregon; Harvey Rinehart of Elgin, Oregon; Mr. and Mrs. George Rinehart, of Walla Walla; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sales of Ashland, Oregon; Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Edwards and their children, Keith, Steven and Dee, of Eugene; Mrs. Flora Joy of Oakland, California; Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Edwards, their children, Veva, Tom, Sheldon and Helen, of Corvallis; Mrs. W. J. Read and children, Irene and Fred, of Corvallis; and the T. A. and J. N. Rinehart families and Vernon Gattick all of Salem.

There are at present about 400 descendants of the early family, with three children, and 33 grand children living.

Many of the descendants have occupied positions of prominence. A son Louis, Jr., who died in Portland in 1927 served as county treasurer of Union county and assessor of Baker county and served as state senator from Union county in 1884, serving four years. T. A. Rinehart has resided in Salem about four years, and served some of this time as state land agent.

Charming Maude Adams, is not a Mrs. D. P. Patterson, Mrs. C. B. Sunquist visitor in Salem and realizing her long and Mrs. Van Orsdel, of Dallas, this Salem folk, as well as a large number of out-of-town people, eagerly awaited her coming, and in appreciation of her superb talent filled the Grand Opera House to capacity last night, when she appeared in her popular vehicle, "Quality Street." The occasion was something of a society event, numerous parties forming for the event.

Miss Margaret Rodgers has just finished her first year at Miss Catlin's girls' school in Portland, and is home to pass the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Rodgers. She returned Wednesday with her mother, Mrs. Joseph Baumgarten, Mrs. George Rose, and Miss Carolyn Dick, who formed a motor party to Portland. Miss Rodgers will finish our four year high school course next year, after which she will probably go east to Vassar.

Mrs. George H. Burnett and Mrs. Edward Waller have invitations out for a reception to be given at the Burnett residence Thursday afternoon, June 24. It will occupy a prominent place on the summer's calendar and will honor Mrs. Charles Hoskatt, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Waller, of Hood River.

The Patriotic Tea given by Mrs. Isaac Lee Patterson, state regent of the D. A. R., at her country place, "Eola on the Hills," Monday, stands out preeminently as one of the most charming events of the week. Salem women eligible to membership filled numerous cars motorizing over for the afternoon, other chapters in Dallas, McMinnville, Silverton and Albany, being likewise represented. In honor of Flag day decorations were prepared in the national colors. Flags, patriotic in signs, and quantities of flowers in these colors beautified the rooms, the tea table being particularly attractive. The centerpiece was a solid mound of flowers in the tri-colors, blue lark spurs forming a lower tier; snowy candy tuft the second with the center filled with crimson rose blossoms. White, red and blue ribbons were used across the table. Mrs. B. O. Stoencking supervised the decorating, and received numerous compliments upon the charming effect. Mrs. N. H. Looney, of Jefferson, and Mrs. Henry B. Thomas presented the samovars and Mrs. Homer Smith and Mrs. C. C. Best cut the ices. Mrs. William Connel Dyer, Mrs. Frank Spears, Mrs. C. F. Crider, of Dallas, Miss Clark and Miss Hawley, were associated much in a social way and also in charity work in Washington, and in this way became warmly attached to each other.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Ames, of Denver, Colorado, who have been the guests of Mrs. Ames' nephew, Russell Catlin, and Mrs. Catlin, left Friday morning after a two weeks' stay in Salem for Seattle, where they will remain for the summer. Their program follows:

The chorus will give a concert and entertainment at the Oregon theater the last two evenings of this month. Reading from left to right, top row, the members are: J. H. Holt, F. W. Schwab, S. M. luncheon. Mrs. Murphy had just recently returned from her visit to Salem and her guests were among those who had contributed to her entertainment while here. There were Mrs. W. H. Ellridge, Mrs. H. P. Boire, Mrs. Charles McNary, Mrs. William Brown, Mrs. Eugene Bryan, Mrs. William P. Lord and Miss Elizabeth Lord. Mrs. Ruth Pradl and Mrs. Mary Church, of Portland, and Mrs. Pradl of Astoria, with other Portland friends, joined the luncheon.

Handsome art baskets, and brass rectangles laden with lovely pink rose blooms, and delicate hand greenery made a radiant setting for the charming evening of song given in Miss Minette Magers' studio, by Miss Greta Phillips, who was presented in a pleasantly arranged program Monday. The large room was filled to capacity, a general response being made to invitations, which numbered about one hundred.

Small Margaret Lewis let the guests in and Mrs. B. M. Miles and Mrs. George H. Burnett formally received them.

The others were Miss Ruth Fugate and Miss Rose Pratt. Mrs. Anna Boggs Fish and Mrs. Vera Schnupp Frick assisted and were most cordially received. Mrs. Fish read "Kitty Clive" by F. F. Moore, while she gave at Mouth recently, and graciously responded with a delightful little sketch, "Twickenham Ferry." Mrs. Frickey gave Liuzt's "Happology" No. 8, and also responded to an encore. Miss Phillips' program was arranged in pleasing groups. In her upper register the tones were quite faultless, and her breath control as well as her individual interpretation were most commendable. Numbers which gave much pleasure were the daintiest selections. Songs of this description are either good or bad and although usually they seem so simple to the listener, require much intelligence on part of a singer for artistic results. Miss Phillips was entirely successful in this respect. heavier numbers were given to display the broader caliber of her voice and elicited much praise from the musically educated audience. Miss Phillips is the regular soloist at the Christian Science church and is also heard frequently at outside occasions. Miss Phillips' numbers were:

Purple Lilac — Deacon
"Just Her Way" — Aitken
Summer — Thomas

A Child's Prayer — Harold
Playmates — Tuckfield
Misfaway — Forster

Serenade — Strauss
Philosophy — Emmell

Spring's Awakening — Sanderson

Future Bells and Beaux, clad in the attire of frocks and knickerbockers, made merry Monday afternoon at a charming children's party given by Mrs. Ralph Glover for her pretty little daughter, Constance Maxine, in celebration of her fifth birthday. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. J. E. Brophy and Miss Cora Talkington. The small guests who were for the greater part the same age as the little honor guest, were delighted with the decorative surroundings. Lovely Carolyn Testout and La France roses filling bowls and baskets about the rooms assisted most effectively in carrying out the pink color motif. The large birthday cake which ornamented the center of the luncheon table in the dining room was perfect in its color and displayed the customary tapers. Candles lighted the board and broad ribbons in pink were suspended from the electric dome to the corners of the table. Invitations to this delightful affair were sent to their fifty-fifth wedding celebration four years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Burghardt have one son, William, Jr., and have lived in Salem in their present location for the past fifteen years. Well known and much appreciated residents, Mr. and Mrs. William Burghardt, Sr., were the mett of a delightfully planned surprise Tuesday evening, a large number of their friends calling to assist them in celebrating their forty-sixth wedding anniversary at their residence, 623 North Winter street.

A number of surprises were inspired by the date, Mr. Burghardt erecting a veranda on the home for the pleasure of Mrs. Burghardt, during her absence in Portland, several days previously, and also securing another splendid gift for her upon her return and both were in turn surprised when neighborhood friends called that evening, remembering the occasion with a large porch rug. Rev. A. A. Winter and his wife were invited to the anniversary, and promising to be present at their fiftieth wedding celebration four years hence. One of the largest and most brilliant social functions of the year at Williamette university was the annual presidential reception to the senior class at the residence of acting President and Mrs. George H. Alden Monday evening.

The room was a bower of floral beauty, the senior class colors of green and white being suggested in every possible way. Syringa, ferns and vining plants were used in profusion, great art baskets of Carolyn Testout roses of the library mantle and stairway adding a charming suggestion of color. Receiving with Dr. and Mrs. Alden were: J. H. Van Winkle, dean of the college of law; Mrs. Vira Winkle, Dean Frederick S. Mendenhall, of the college of music; Mrs. Mendenhall, Frank Francis, president of the senior class; Miss Gertrude Eskin, vice-president; Miss Lila Kuntz, of the school of music, and Arthur Krichart, of the law college.

During the evening Mr. Harold Jory very pleasantly sang "Dudley Buck" and "Sunset," with Miss Eva Hogue accompanying at the piano. Miss Barton gave "Bright Star of Love," by V. Hobart, with violin obligato by Miss Joy Turner, and Miss Lucile Kuntz at the piano. Professor R. B. Walsh of Oberlin College accompanied the program.
